THE LATE STORMS.

HOUSES STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

DESTRUCTION OF CROPS AND BUILDINGS

The storm of Saturday night last, on ac count of the superabundant presence of lightning and thunder, will not be soon torgotten. In the opinion of observant perons who have lingered long in this land here was never anything in late years to equal . Those who resided in the western portion of the city thought that the lightning spent its full force in their nats: the people in the centre of the city and on Church and Union Hills, and in Rocketts, had the same erroneous idea. The fact is that the whole city was affected alike. Never were there so many affrighted people. Amid all the thunders of the seven-days' battles, when the euemy was storming our defences, when bombshells were bursting in the air not far off, and the shricks of wounded and dying could be heard, it is believed that not such widepread terror ever came upon this goodly city. Ludies and children alone were not the victims; the fearful peals of thunder shaking the earth, the lightning fishing and coursing lady said she thought her house would go to along the streets, playing about churchsteeples in its mad pranks, and seeming to the family were prepared at any moment to strike near by every few minutes, created a rush from the building rather than be scene of territic grandeur, and made brave, manly bearts quail, while it struck with almost mortal fear many nervous and timid dreds of yards away, barns and other outpersons. The fact, as published in this paper, that most of those who have been killed scattered over a great distance, and horses by lightning this season met their death winle seated or lying in drafts has made a deep impression. In numerous instances that might be mentioned ladies, profiting by the information, shut themselves up in close rooms, or even in tight clo-ets, and in spite of the almost suff cating heat there remained until they could in their opinion safely emerge. Nor was the storm of short dura-

AFTER THE STORM.

The storm begin about 91 o'clock, and continued until 111. During much of that time Richmond seemed to those off at a distance all sflime, only the light came and went, with short intervals between dense darkness and dazzling brilliancy.

There was a considerable tall of rain, but nothing remarkable; though the force with which it seemed precipitated upon the earth was rather unusual. The area covered by ne storm was quite extensive, reaching beyond the city on all sides.

Saturday night, after the storm had somewhat lulled, it was declared to have been of ex'raordinary violence, but not ustil Sunday, when people had met together and compared notes and talked it over, was t e true ffect of it known. It is very notable that while nearly every house in the city shook as it it was leaving its foundation, and though bolts of lightning appeared to descend on every street, not a life was lost and no serious damage was done any one. SOME OF THE RESULTS.

We give below some of the results: A sycamore tree on the lot of Mr. Robert struck and killed by lightning The residence of Robert Dillard, No. 101 east First and Canal street, was struck and badly damaged. The fluid entered by a window, and within four feet of where Mrs. Dillard and her children were sitting on a sofa. They were stunned but not injured. The fluid made a large bole in the chamber floor, tore off the washboards, knocked down the plastering, broke a globe lamp and put out the light. Also stunged some mem bers of the family of Mr. J. H. Knowles. living near by. An oak tree near the Sidney Baptist church was torn down. Also, a big locust tree near the burying ground of the late Eustace Robinson, Esq., by the new reseryoir, and a huge oak on the Chesterfield side of James river, opposite the first canal-locks. The lightning also struck the house of Mrs. Joynes, near Bacon's Quarter Branch, amid the cneers of the Baitimoreans and knocked the chimney all to pieces, then went into the second story, splintered a mantelpiece, and finally entered the first story and passed out on a gas-pipe without injuring any of the inmates.

OTHER INCIDENTS. The rod on the Second Baptist church is believed by some to have carried off the lightning twice. A gentleman who noticed St. Paur's church steeple when the lightning was most dazzling in that vicinity says it seemed to bim as if the steeple would surely be set on fire. Yet it escaped uninjured. A Church Hill gentleman states as a fact that. seated at his front window, more than a mile away, he could during the flishes plainly discern the burnished fork of the lightningrod on Broad Street Methodist church. A brick house on Second and Duval streets was somewhat injured. At a house owned by Mr. Caulder, south end of Pine street, a part of the chimney was knocked off, and the mantel pieces were moved from the wall. The lightning left in two different directions-through the house and along the conductor.

A bouse near the corner of Fifteenth and Poplar streets was also struck, but not very greatly damaged.

The lines of the Western Union Telegraph Company and city and police telegraph were very little interfered with. A considerable portion of our telegraphic dispatches Saturday night were received here while the storm was in progress, and when the lightning was dancing around the wires and posts in most fantastic style, and when the air was so heavily charged with electricity that it sent a tingling sensation through peoples' frames.

The yessels lying in the dock and those in the river below the city also suffered from the effects of the storm. There were few lying in the dock yesterday that were not injured in some respect. A lew miles below the city a schooner had her mast shattered by lightning.

The street railway track was struck by lightning on Broad street above Ninth, and the electric fluid ran on the track, with a peculiar hissing noise, down as far as Eleventh street.

THE STORM SUNDAY AFTERNOON. Very few people of this city knew Sunday evening that a violent storm of wind, ac companied by rain, and to some extent by bail, was prevaling near this vicinity. So people in Hanover, Henrico, and Chesterfield, on Saturday night, had not, and propably never will have, any conception of the ex raordinary character of the storm here. Sunday evening between 5 and 6 o'clock clouds gathered quickly and in great force westward of the city. The hundreds of people who were walking out seeking cool air af er the burdensome heat of the earlier part of the day at once sought shelter. A little rain fell, and along with it come a wind which raised all the dust available after the drenching of Saturday night, but no other harm was done. In fact, the result was rather a pleasant disappointment to those who tremblingly awaited a repetition of Saturday Trespectfully give notice that I shall continue the ceremonies, has never been found. In many fields the stalks are beaten and broken down, and the blades torn to shreds. At Mr. Benjamin Chalkley's the bail covered the earth, and the wind blew down wheat and oat shocks, and scattered the sheaves all over the ground. From the wind, like damage to growing corp and to small grain in shocks is reported at Aiken's farm and in that neighborhood, on both sides of the river, and indeed for miles down the river.

The new dwelling-house occupied by the manager of the farm of Major B. H. Nash, Hall this morning at 94 o'clock, and wil nearly opposite A ken's landing, was stru k | march thence to Governor street, and down by lightning Sunday evening about 6 o'clock Governor to Main, and up Main to Eighth and burnt to the ground. Loss, about $850; insured in the Old Dominion Insurance Company for $400. Major Nash, upon receiving information of his loss, ordered in this city lumber to be sent down to build a new house.

At Enon church while services were going on, many of the windows were broken, and were fastened blown down.

THE STORM AT BRANDON.

A letter written from Brandon by a lady yesterday represents that between 5 and 6 clock on Sunday evening the storm reached that place. The wind blew terribly. The pieces, and despite the fury of the elements, caught in it when it fell. Shade-trees were torn down, wagons and carts blown hunhouses destroyed, shocks of wheat and oats and mules spun around in the fields and thrown against fences and trees.

Two darkies who had gone over from Claremont to Brandon were about landing at the latter place, when the wind struck them and almost instantaneously conveyed them back to Claremont, and, marvellous to say without doing them any injury. Captain Harrison's loss from the scattering of his wheat crop is represented as quite large. His hay-barn and stables were blown lown, and other damage done on his place. Like reports come from nearly all the James river plantations in that section.

IN POWHATAN.

A gentleman of this city who attended the all-day meeting at Rock Oak church, in Powbatan county, says the storm struck that called at the Mayor's Court to-day. It is part of the county about 5 o'clock, just as the people were going home from courch, and the wounded man, though much better, is that it produced the same results as are reported to have occurred at half-way station viz, beavy fall of bail, cutting down the corn, wind blowing down trees, fences, and ome houses, but fortunately, as far as is known, doing no person any injury.

BALTIMORE EXCURSIONISTS IN RICHMOND. The excursion from Baltimore under the suspices of the Young Catholic Friends Society of that city, arrived in Richmond Sunday morning between 10 and 11 o'clock. The excursionists left Bultimore numbering nearly three hundred, but many of them remained at West Point, where they spent the day in enjoying themselves in various ways. The greater portion, however, continued "on to Richmond," intent upon seeing the V. Priddy, on Clay near Henry street, was sights in the City of Hills. Sure to regulate the boweis the dwelling-house of Mr. W. T. Griffin on Saturday night last. Thomas, like other men, great and small, has his failings. One of them is a fondness for incoriating fluids. Having taken "a leettle too much" and been caught in the storm Saturday night, and somewhat blinded and confused by the lightning, he staggered into Mr. Griffi a's porch, and thicking toat he was at home, BIG'S LIQUID FXTRACT OF BEFF. tried to open the door with a key. He lumbled vainly at the key-hole, and the noise ne made brought Mr. Griffin down to the door. But just as Mr. Griffin was about to open gums or mouth, or disinfecting decayed teeth, now the door his lamp was blown out. While he went back to get it relit, Thomas threw himself with violence against the door, and telled out, "Open the door." About this time one of Mr. Griffin's neighbors came across the street and arrested Thoma-.
